Dear Ms. Gersztzoff:

Further to our discussion today, we are sending this letter to confirm that JSTOR does not collect from an educational agency licensing access to the JSTOR service “Student Data”, defined in NY Education Law Section 2-d as “personally identifiable information from student records of an educational agency”. The sole personal information JSTOR collects from an educational agency is the contact information for the employee individuals who are responsible for administering the license on behalf of the educational agency.

Sincerely,
